

DAkKS – Germany's National Accreditation Body

Accredited according to Section 8(1) of AkkStelleG in connection with Section 1(1) of AkkStelleGBV

Signatory of the multilateral agreement of EA, ILAC, and IAF for mutual recognition

Accreditation

The Germany's National Accreditation Body hereby confirms that the testing laboratory

Exova GmbH

Exova Brandhaus, Industriepark Höchst, Geb. C 369, 65926 Frankfurt am Main, Germany has the competence to carry out testing in the below mentioned fields according to DIN EN ISO/IEC 17025:2005:

fire behaviour of building materials and building components, materials, textiles, and plastics, furniture and construction products (incl. combustibility, flammability, flame spread, melting behaviour and heat development;

testing of secondary fire symptoms (gas density and flue gas components) in building materials and building components used in the aerospace sector;

fire behaviour and fire prevention for building materials and building components in rail vehicles;

testing of construction products and horizontal testing of fire behaviour in construction products within the framework of EU regulation no. 305/2011 laying down harmonized conditions for selling construction products (Construction Products Regulation)

The accreditation certificate is only valid in connection with the assessment issued on 23/07/2014 with the accreditation number D-PL-18354-01 and only valid until 16/01/2018. It consists of this front page, the back of the front page and the following annex, the latter consisting of 10 pages

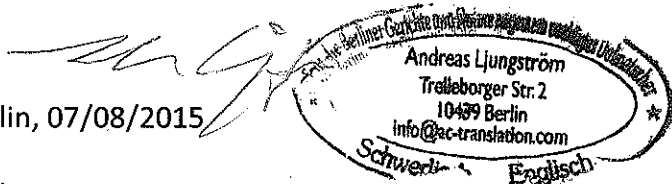

Document registration number: D-PL-18354-01-00

Berlin, 23/07/2014

Im Auftrag Dr. Heike Manke
Abteilungsleiterin

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and faithful translation of the German original.

Berlin, 07/08/2015

Andreas Ljungström

Sworn interpreter and translator for the English language to the Berlin law courts and notaries public